Coal Operators Confer With Lewis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Soft coal operators and UMW Chief John L. Lewis failed at a three-hour conference today to reach agreement on a compromise plan to end strikes affecting 186,800 miners.

They did agree, however, to renew their talks with Secretary of Labor Schweitzer at a session later in the day.

Prior to the morning meeting, Schweitzer reported that the two sides were "not far apart." Neither representatives of the United Mine Workers nor the operators would comment as they left the conference room.

FAR EASTERN ADVISORS TO MEET OCT. 23

Byrnes, In Calling Session, Says MacArthur To Retain Post

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The United States has called a meeting of a proposed Far Eastern Advisory commission for Oct. 23 in Washington, but intends to make no change in General Douglas MacArthur's post as supreme commander in Japan.

Secretary of State Byrnes announced the meeting today, saying that invitations had gone out to nine other governments and that India may be included at Britain's suggestion.

Simultaneously, Byrnes disclosed Russia had suggested that creation of the advisory commission be preceded by establishment of a control council for Japan.

MacArthur To Stay

Such a step would mean either replacing or lowering MacArthur from his present position as supreme commander for the Allies. Byrnes, making it clear that he personally does not favor this Russian proposition, said there is no intention of altering MacArthur's status.

Nations invited to the meeting here are Russia, Britain, China, France, Canada, Australia, the Netherlands, New Zealand and the Philippines.

The advisory commission was proposed by the United States on Aug. 21, a week after Japan surrendered. The Chinese government accepted Sept. 27.

Byrnes gave these dates to show, he said, that he had not proposed anything new about Japan at the recent foreign ministers meeting at London.

The Big Four of the Pacific war approved inclusion of the other six countries in the advisory council and they were so notified on Oct. 6. Yesterday, Byrnes said, the United States sent identical telegrams for the commission to meet Oct. 23.

In preparation for its own role, Byrnes named as the American representative Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, retired army officer, who is president of the Foreign Policy association.

Byrnes said the commission would have been in action weeks ago if Britain had made earlier agreement on the proposal. He reported that her objections was first the probability of membership for India and second an agreement that the agency should meet in Tokyo when desirable.

Several times, Byrnes emphasized MacArthur would remain as supreme commander for the Allies in Japan.

Engineer and Comedian Will Get Ohioana Awards

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—Two native Ohioans—a nationally known comedian and an engineer—will receive the 1945 Ohioana library awards for outstanding contributions to their professions at the organization's annual meeting here Oct. 27.

Library spokesmen reported last night comedian Joe E. Brown, born at Holgate (Henry county), and Dr. Arthur E. Morgan of Yellow Springs, a former president of Antioch college, had been selected for the award.

Brown was named for entertaining servicemen at world battle fronts. Mrs. Anna M. Brown of Toledo, the comedian's mother, plans to accompany her son here for the presentation.

Dr. Morgan's award was based on his noteworthy work in hydraulic engineering. Morgan, a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority in its early stages of development, is credited with planning and directing 69 major conservation dams.

ACID BLAST KILLS TWO IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—Two men were burned fatally last night when a 600-gallon tank of hydrofluoric acid exploded at the Harshaw Chemical Co. Ten other men working in the same first floor room escaped injury.

The victims were Elmer Spoerke and Edward Pekarek. Fellow employees rescued five women employees trapped by fumes on the third floor of the building. Firemen and plant inspectors said cause of the explosion was not immediately determined.

May End Warren Strike

WARREN, Oct. 10.—Local officials of the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers meet with officers of the General Motors Corp. and federal conciliators in Detroit today in an effort to settle the 41-day-old strike of 3,000 UERM members at General Motors' Packard Electric division here.

Gen. Marshall . . . no time for complacency

Marshall Believes Atomic Secret Won't Remain Such

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Gen. George C. Marshall says the secret of atomic explosive "will not be ours exclusively indefinitely."

The chief of staff's view, expressed in his biennial report, had added significance in view of President Truman's message on atomic power sent to congress last week.

In his message, Mr. Truman said scientists agreed that the theory is "widely known" that foreign research will come abreast of us in time. He urged international renunciation of the use of atomic bombs.

Marshall commented that "the tremendous military advantage of this terrifying weapon fell to us through a combination of good luck, good management and prodigious effort. The harnessing of atomic power should give Americans confidence in their destiny but at the same time we must be extremely careful not to fall victim to overconfidence."

It was at this point he made his statement that the discovery could not be kept exclusive.

Enemy Gains Recounted

In the years between the two world wars, Marshall said, we permitted Germany to "far outpace" us in development of instruments with military use. German development of long-range rockets and pilotless aircraft stemmed from this peacetime research.

"The fact that we overtook Germany's head start on the atomic explosive is comforting, but certainly should not lull us again into a state of complacent inertia," Marshall continued.

In a section of his report devoted to "our weapons," the general contested the belligerents in weapons inventions and improvements.

The Germans jet fighters went into combat first, but they were limited to a maximum endurance of a little over an hour. Ours, he said, "already had the endurance to fly non-stop from San Francisco to New York."

Another "noteworthy example of German superiority" was in the heavy tank, he reported, saying that "from the summer of 1943 to the spring of 1945 the German Tiger and Panther tanks out-matched our Sherman tanks in direct combat."

He explained that the American concept of the use of tanks was as a weapon of exploitation, making long steps into the rear and therefore requiring low fuel consumption and ability to move great distances without breakdown.

Sherman Tank Outclassed

But it became unavoidable in prepared-line fighting to escape tank-to-tank battles and in these Marshall conceded the Sherman medium was outclassed.

The M-26 Pershing tank, "equal in direct combat to any the Germans had," began to reach the battle lines of Europe last winter. At the same time, work was started on two heavier models, the 84-ton T-29 and T-30.

Youthful E. Rochester Motorist Is Sentenced

LISBON, Oct. 10.—James Heim, 17-year-old East Rochester boy, was sentenced late yesterday to an indefinite term in the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster, by Probate Judge Milton C. Cope, after the boy stood trial in juvenile court on a charge of second degree manslaughter.

Heim, whose trial was heard without jury, was held responsible for the death of Palmer Kring, 50, of Sidmon, Pa., whom he struck and injured fatally while driving his car on Route 30 the night of Aug. 22.

Disarmament Folly Is Cited By Army Head

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—General Marshall cautioned Americans today that a rich nation which lays down its arms in this age of terrifying and fantastic new weapons courts catastrophe.

The chief of staff said the United States should maintain a regular army, national guard and reserve of trained civilians so huge it could mobilize 4,000,000 men within a year.

It should not stint funds for intensive scientific research, Marshall asserted in his biennial report to the secretary of war, at a time when methods of attack hitherto unpublished may subject New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago or San Francisco to a rain of annihilation from points thousands of miles from this continent.

Here is what Marshall thinks this country should do:

Provide money and means for continuous research into the military ramifications of man's scientific advance.

Provide a permanent peacetime citizen army, built around a corps of men who have received one year of compulsory military training.

Encourage the national guard—it is "in the first category of importance" in the citizen army. "Maintain a regular army composed primarily of a strategic force, with emphasis on air power, part of it deployed in the Pacific and Caribbean."

Keep the training program abreast of technical developments and the resulting modifications of tactics.

Too Idealistic In World Affairs, Claim

"To prevent another international catastrophe," Marshall declared, "there is no alternative but that this nation must be prepared to defend its interest against any nation or combination of nations which might sometime feel powerful enough to attempt settlement of political arguments or gain resources or territory by force of arms."

In the past, he said, "we have ignored the hard realities of world affairs. We have been purely idealistic."

Marshall insisted that any hope for lasting peace must be predicated on the ability to enforce it with strength. He said the State department believes that a decision now to adopt universal military training would greatly bolster this country's efforts to obtain world organization. "This war has made it clear that the security of the nation, when challenged by an armed enemy, requires the services of virtually all able-bodied male citizens within the effective military age group," Marshall wrote.

"In war the nation cannot depend on the numbers of men willing to volunteer for active service; nor can our security in peace."

"In another national emergency, the existence of a substantial portion of the nation's young manpower already trained or in process of training, would make it possible to fill out immediately the peacetime ranks of the navy, the regular army, the national guard and the organized reserve."

"As a result our armed forces would be ready for almost immediate deployment to counter initial hostile moves, ready to prevent an enemy from gaining footholds from which he could launch destructive attacks against our industries and our homes."

Would Set Policy For Generations

"By this method we would establish, for generations to come, a national military policy:

"(1) Which is entirely within the financial capabilities of our peacetime economy and is absolutely democratic in its nature, and (2) which places the military world and therefore the political world on notice that this vast power, linked to our tremendous resources, wealth and production, is immediately available."

"There can be no question that all the nations of the world will respect our views accordingly, creating at least a probability of peace on earth and good will among men rather than disaster upon disaster in a tormented world where the very processes of civilization itself are constantly threatened."

The only effective defense a nation can now maintain is the power of attack and that power can not be in machinery alone, Marshall said.

He foresaw the possibility of a future war in which the United States might be showered, as southern England was, with rocket-propelled weapons—but new ones having the explosive power of the atomic bomb.

If this should come to pass, he said, the United States will "bleed and suffer perhaps to the point of annihilation, unless we can move armies of men into the enemy's bases of operation and seize the sites from which he launches his attacks."

The atomic bomb is not the only scientific development making the "possibilities of the future so terrifying," wrote Marshall. And he presented a hitherto secret report by Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Air Forces, to show what has or is being accomplished.

Arnold said we can direct rockets to targets by electronic devices and other new instruments which "home" in on sources of light, heat and magnetism—striking unerringly to the hearts of big factories, attracted by the heat of the furnaces.

Mammoth New Bombs Developed By U. S.

We are making bombs weighing 45,000 pounds and have 100,000 pounders on the drawing boards. Within the next few years there will be jet-propelled bombers with 500 to 600 mile an hour speed.

Development of others, operating in the stratosphere at speeds faster than sound "is a certainty" and these aircraft "will have sufficient range to attack any spot on the earth and return to a friendly base."

Weapons such as these make the air approaches points of extreme danger, Arnold said, adding: "With the continued development of weapons and techniques now known to us, the cities of New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, or San Francisco may be subject to assault."

Enemy's World War II Errors Cited

He asserted that "in good conscience this nation can take little credit for its part in staving off disaster in those critical days. It is certain that the refusal of the British and Russian peoples to accept what appeared to be inevitable defeat was the great factor in the salvage of our civilization. Of almost equal importance was the failure of the enemy to make the most of the situation."

Marshall said that interrogation of Axis high commanders showed the original three members of the Axis—Germany, Italy and Japan—acted individually in directing their own aggression.

"Here," commented Marshall, "were three criminal nations eager for loot and seeking greedily to advance their own self-interest by war, yet unable to agree on a strategic over-all plan for accomplishment 'from the scourge of war'."

Hitting Complacency

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

America was preparing to get rich quick, wars were a thing of the past, the Washington disarmament conference had left us feeling that we didn't even need the small defensive navy agreed upon, and all was right with the world.

A few voices raised in protest were drowned out by the clamorous search for normalcy. The United States army was limited by law to 280,000 men, congress had appropriated for 144,000, and actual strength was 133,000.

To be sure, German failure to disarm under the Versailles treaty had forced extension of the original time limit for occupation of Cologne and the Rhineland, but the troops finally were moving out of the Ruhr. Mussolini had mobilized his Fascist national guard and closed all rival political clubs.

The American acting consul at Leghorn, Italy, as seriously beaten by Fascists.

But the League of Nations agreed in the initial steps of a further disarmament program, and signed new protocols covering "humane" warfare. Germany, under the man who built the Hindenburg line which American troops had been called upon to break in 1918, was at the forefront among the signers.

Twenty years ago today, at Locarno, the nations of Europe were in a conference which resulted in numerous agreements to preserve

A Glance Into The Future Is Enough

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—What will be tomorrow's weapons?

Two generals, Chief of Staff George C. Marshall and Chief of Air Forces H. H. Arnold, mention these:

Rocket-propelled weapons with atomic explosive.

Rockets streaking unerringly to targets, guided by autopilots made sensitive by electronic devices and other new instruments to the heat of factory furnaces, light and magnetism. They are so responsive that in a large room they aim themselves toward a man who enters, in reaction to the heat of his body.

Jet-propelled bombers flying in the stratosphere faster than the speed of sound and carrying bomb loads of more than 100,000 pounds. They will have sufficient range to attack any spot on earth. Already are construction are 45,000-pound bombs—and bombers to carry them.

The Moral of All the Stories

Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's personal account of the events that led up to the surrender of his forces on Bataan and Corregidor is so vital a part of the historic record that every detail will be under close scrutiny.

Already, in the first installments of the general's version, the moral of his story—the moral of all the stories of events in the early days of the war—is plain. The United States had ceased to be dynamic in matter of its defense. This country had a Maginot line complex, but no Maginot line.

Gen. Wainwright points out that the plan for defense of the Philippines in the event of Japanese invasion was a passive withdrawal to Bataan peninsula and a last-ditch stand, until relief could be sent from outside. When command of the forces in the islands passed to his hands, he resolved to modify the existing plan to include attack. He and Gen. MacArthur agreed that mere defense could avail nothing against a determined enemy.

What happened is familiar history, but there is danger that the happy ending which victory has supplied may obscure the tragic beginning. At the outset of the war, determined enemies took shrewd and ruthless advantage of the fact the United States was mentally and physically unprepared to fight for its existence. They gambled on their conviction that it could not shake off its lethargy in time to overcome the early advantages they were sure to gain by virtue of being first to strike. They lost, ultimately, but before they surrendered they impoverished the Allies as well as themselves—and if they are permitted another chance they still might win.

Interim Senator From Ohio

The appointment of James W. Huffman, his commerce director, seems to have given Governor Lausche a way out of the political dilemma created by Harold H. Burton's elevation to the United States Supreme court. As a senator, Mr. Huffman probably will stand somewhere between Governor Lausche's position in party politics and the position of his famous father-in-law, Vic Donahey. Through association, it may be assumed, Mr. Huffman probably has learned something about his father-in-law's peculiar art in politics, which was to please many and disappoint few.

It was essentially the art of seeming to be of the people—the common touch—without getting involved in their squabbles and controversies. Ohio's new senator was his father-in-law's executive secretary for a time; that may help. If he will look up the Donahey voting record in the United States Senate, where his father-in-law represented Ohio from 1935 to 1941—a period of sizzling controversy during which the New Deal tried to make over America—he will discover a curious thing.

On a list of 150 key issues that came before the Senate for decision during those troubled years, Vic Donahey's opinion was not recorded on 55 separate occasions. He was neither for nor against. He kept his constituents guessing. But that all happened a good many years ago. Since then, Ohioans have become accustomed to being represented in the Senate by men with opinions. Mr. Huffman, no doubt, will take his cue from them, rather than from the Donahey legend.

Not Guilty

The prosecutors responsible for justice to German and Japanese war criminals have a thankless job. The pattern of the war trials is established—and it isn't pretty.

The war criminals are not guilty within their own codes of ethics. They are not clearly guilty within the American code. The atrocity trials are an attempt to establish for the first time that certain kinds of violence previously condoned by the axiom that all is fair in war are in fact international crimes—and to establish this after the commission of the crimes.

In Manila, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japan's last commander in the Philippines, is charged with responsibility for atrocities committed by his troops. Yet he was only nominally responsible; it would be as logical to try Emperor Hirohito, who held ultimate responsibility for everything done by the Japanese. This is not to minimize the importance of the effort to establish the nature of international war crimes, but to acknowledge the difficulty of the attempt. In Germany, Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, the financial wizard, is protesting that he only worked for the Nazis and is not, therefore, a war criminal. All Germans and Japanese, as individuals, are innocent of wrong-doing as they think of their part in the war. Yet, collectively, they either are guilty of crime or the nations bringing them to trial are guilty.

Protecting The Postwar House

Fire Prevention Week comes this year on the eve of what promises to be the country's biggest building boom. And it comes with a timely reminder that it costs no more to build a dwelling properly, according to recommendations of the National Fire Protection association, than it does to construct a potential fire trap.

In the last 10 years fire has killed 100,000 Americans, 75,000 of them in homes. It has burned and disfigured 170,000. It has destroyed $3,000,000,000 worth of property. Our peacetime fire loss has become the highest in the world, higher even than the normal loss in the supposedly tinderbox country of Japan.

The causes of our fires are about equally divided between carelessness and negligence. And while human behavior isn't so easily corrected, structural hazards can be eliminated.

So those who are planning to buy or build should make sure that their postwar "dream house" has such practical necessities as an adequate wiring system with sufficient outlets; a roof of fire-resistant material; a properly constructed chimney; and an efficient heating plant, properly installed and adequately protected.

A Deserved Decoration

Probably no member of the theatrical profession contributed his talents to victory in a more unobtrusive way than Irving Berlin. No longer a youngster, Mr. Berlin lived a soldier's life among soldiers while he wrote his show for soldier actors, "This Is the Army". He tramped around the country with the show, and without much fanfare. Later he visited overseas theaters, never complaining, as some others did, about accommodations, audience response, and so on.

His show, in New York, on tour, and in film version, netted the Army Emergency Relief fund more than $9,000,000. He well deserves the Medal of Merit pinned on him by General Marshall for "extraordinary service" in creating and producing "This Is the Army," and for "building and maintaining morale among soldiers and civilians" and for "contributing generously of his talent for the support of the dependents of fighting men".

The Stars Say

For Thursday, October 11.

WHILE there are indications of an opening for an ambitious and fairly lucrative proposition of plan, which might be developed to major importance, yet there are also signs of obstacles, delays, difficult and depressing situations. Change of a radical nature is probable, the idea of a sound one might enlist public or group cooperation. Worthwhile partnerships might be wisely considered.

Yet a deep-seated upheaval, in which personal desires might be over-insistent, with conflict in domestic relations, might prove a disturbing factor in the final outcome. Consider seriously.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for an unexpected opening, of a moderately profitable and agreeable association, in which the public or community might be benefited and give substantial support. Partnerships might also be taken under advisement. All seems to involve radical change, new transactions or interests, but all might beget postponements, or other discouragement.

An attempt at over-insisting on personal desires rather than good business judgment might involve friction or misunderstanding in the home or in close-up relations with friends or partners.

A child born on this day may have splendid ideas and novel plans for doing things, meeting public approval but stirring up domestic disagreements. This causes many ups and downs.

Emperor Hirohito wore a high top silk hat and what goes with it when he called on General MacArthur—mourning clothes.

Ways To Relieve Asthma

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
SOME interesting facts have been brought out by a report concerning the treatment of asthma in soldiers who were returned from overseas duty because the asthma became so severe that it kept them from further army activity. Naturally, in most instances the symptoms continued even after the men returned to this country. The great majority of the soldiers had been on duty in the tropics.

In about two-thirds of the cases, the men had had asthma before their entry into the army. In some instances, however, the asthma had ceased during civilian life, but had returned.

Asthma Explained
Asthma, as you may know, is a condition in which there are attacks accompanied by coughing, shortness of breath, wheezing and sometimes slight fever.

A careful study of the cases revealed that the things which seemed to have brought on the attacks were climate, dust, and infection. By climate is meant either great amounts of moisture in the air with high temperatures, and daily rains over a prolonged period of time, as is usual in the tropics, or cold, damp weather with frequent rain.

In some of the men, the attacks occurred when they were exposed to cold and damp weather with frequent rain. In about nine out of every ten instances, climate alone or in combination with dust and infection was the cause of the attacks.

When the men were returned to this country, a variety of treatments was employed to relieve them. The patients were put in hospitals in relatively dust-free, clean, bare rooms. Hair pillows were used instead of pillows containing feathers.

There are a number of drugs which have been employed to relieve attacks of asthma. These include potassium iodide, ephedrine, aminophylline, and epinephrine. The epinephrine given by injection under the skin was used repeatedly.

Questions and Answers On Problems of the Servicemen

WASHINGTON—Here are some questions from veterans who have just returned from Europe, regarding education benefits under the GI Bill of Rights:

Q. I was wounded overseas and received a permanent disability. I have been receiving my monthly check from the government but think if I go to school I will eventually be able to support myself completely. Is it possible to have the government send me to school while I am getting that money?

A. Yes, but an adjustment will be made as to how much you will get all together. You won't get the full amount of the disability checks plus all the money usually paid for education. You will be paid according to your special case and needs.

Q. I took R. O. T. C. when I was in college and received my commission in August, 1940. I served for four months and was forced to leave because of a condition I developed in my ear. Am I eligible for another year of college on the government in order to start working for a degree?

A. Yes. You served the necessary 90 days to qualify for the GI Rights benefits.

Q. I was drafted a month before the end of the war. I understand that you have to have served at least 90 days prior to the end of the war in order to qualify for GI education rights. Does this mean that no matter how long I am kept in I will never qualify for government-paid education?

A. You can qualify for the education benefits. The 90 days service need not all be within the period Sept. 16, 1940, to end of the war, but may include service extending into or beyond this period.

Q. I never finished high school. They tell me the education the government gives you is for learning a trade or going to college. Is this true?

A. You can get money from the government to pay for finishing high school as well as for college or vocational education.

ALLIES PURGE GERMAN BOOKS

Nazi Propaganda Articles Among Publications Now Banned

(By United Press)

BERLIN — A central committee will be formed to list all books and writings to be withdrawn from the book trade and circulating libraries, the American-sponsored newspaper Allgemeine Zeitung reported.

Books to be removed will include such Nazi propaganda as volumes written by Dr. Robert Ley, Goebbels and Rosenberg, as well as the writings of such authors as Werner Beumelburg and Erwin Dwingler which were said often to contain hidden militaristic references.

Staffs Rid of Nazis

Still other books will be banned for educational reasons, the newspaper reported, "as their works give to children and adults alike an unreal picture, full of romance."

It added that of 175,000 books remaining in municipal libraries at the end of the war, up to 30 per cent were withdrawn by district commissions "for being politically undesirable or literally important." In addition 15 to 20 per cent of the staff members were dismissed as being members of the Nazi party.

The district commissions consisted of four persons for each of 42 public libraries—one representative of the library, one official of the book department in the education department, an owner of a circulating library and a bookseller.

3 Berlin Libraries to Stay

The newspaper said occupation authorities have guaranteed that Berlin's three scientific libraries—the state library, the university library and the city library—would continue.

The newspaper added that the most important one, the state library, had lost 2,000,000 volumes out of 4,000,000 books and 3,000,000 other publications. Eventually the state library will be the first to reopen and will have 2,000,000 books.

The university library, which suffered comparatively little damage, has 1,100,000 books.

The city library has only 10,000 books out of its 350,000 prewar volumes.

In the immediate prewar period, Americans ate an average of 19 pounds of candy a year.

Uneven Dollar Supply Darkens Trade Picture

Termination of Lend-Lease raises the question of ability of nations of the world to buy from the U. S. or, lacking money, to earn dollars with which to buy. Map shows distribution of dollars abroad, with Latin-America, additionally, owning approximately $4,000,000,000 in gold and dollars with the power to spend freely in the immediate future. Earning capacity of nations needing money is poor, in most cases, and will remain poor until industry can be re-established. Britain, for instance, will need time and assistance in reconversion. Resort to dollar loans from the U. S. is expected as a result, with the possibility that more financial machinery will be required.

Harold Daugherty Passes Like Coaches Dream About

By NEA Service

COLUMBUS—Ohio State coaches believe the best passer in the Western Conference—if not the entire country—is Harold Daugherty, 17-year-old tailback of Weirton, W. Va.

Daugherty was forced to make an important decision last spring, upon completion of his high school days. He's a red-hot baseball prospect, playing shortstop, and a number of big league clubs were interested in his services.

Like most Daughertys, tow-headed Harold has acquired the nickname of "Doc."

Even in his football uniform, Daugherty looks like a baseball player. There's a certain cleanliness, coolness, easiness and sureness about him as he hurls the pigskin just as though he were firing the ball over to the first baseman from his shortstop position to catch a fast runner.

Soft Ball Easy To Catch

Ohio State receivers say Daugherty, despite all his swiftness, tosses a soft ball, which makes it easy to catch.

He leads receivers just enough on his throws. One of them said: "He practically puts that ball in your pocket."

Just how much service Daugherty sees with the Bucks is a question. He's a slick receiver of a pass, too, but not quite the player in other departments as he is in passing.

Sarringhaus Comes First

As a left halfback, Daugherty stands behind Pitchin' Paul Sarringhaus, who, because of his experience and all-around know-how, naturally will see considerable service.

Sarringhaus was a member of the great Ohio State team of 1942. Following two years in the armed forces, he was discharged because of near-sightedness. He plays wearing contact lenses.

You can bet your bottom dollar that Coach Carroll Widdoes will have Daugherty throwing strikes if and when the Buckeyes go into the final period trailing by a touchdown or two.

Another department in which Daugherty excels is in the virtually forgotten art of drop-kicking.

This proves that he is a very unusual young man.

Flame Thrower To Dry Fields Seen

NEW YORK — Several of the American Soccer league clubs are in the market for Army and Marine flame throwers which probably will be sold as surplus property by the government soon.

There's no doubt that when other sports promoters hear of the plan, they'll also be seeking the lethal machines which helped bring the Japs to their knees.

The managers of the league's two Maryland representatives, the Baltimore Americans and the Baltimore Soccer club, as well as Erno Schwarzwitz of the New York Americans and Johnny Slavin of the Brookhattan Soccer club, are convinced the flame throwers will be the answer to their weather problems.

Last season inclement weather caused several postponements which crippled the league schedule.

"Most of our trouble stems from the condition of the playing field," Slavin said. "A flame thrower could clear a pitch of snow and ice and dry it in little time."

The baseball park at Quito, Ecuador, is a paradise for home-run hitters. The rarefied atmosphere at the 9500-foot altitude gives batters greater distance, and deprives pitchers of their sharp-breaking curves.

Columbiana Determined To Give Bears Fight

Leetonia Highly Favored But Victory Fever Soars With Fans In Clippertown

Leetonia may be rated as the top Class B school in this section, but Coach Johnny Cabas' Columbiana Clippers mean to make them display their wares at Leetonia Saturday!

Despite the fact that Columbiana has been crippled somewhat by the absence of Carl Sheets and Bill Newell from the backfield for the past two weeks, the Clippers are "up" for this ball game.

A "beat Leetonia" fever is in full sway in Columbiana, there can be no question about that.

The game—still a question mark as to starting time—is set for Saturday, but the exact hour for the kickoff has not been definitely determined.

Long hopeful of erecting lights and enlarging their football stadium, Leetonia has begun the actual installation of lights for their field and has hopes of having the arcs glowing for the fray Saturday evening. If the holdup in erection is too long, Leetonia will meet the Clippers in the afternoon at 2:30 as originally planned, but if the lights are up the game will go at 7:45 p. m. Saturday.

Bears Tops On Paper
Barring all the pent-up Columbiana fever to oust the Leetonians from the county's top pedestal, the Bears look as heavy favorites. Their 12th victory in a row last week over Salem rates them as pre-game favorites in a walk over the Clippers.

On paper that's the way the story looks, but with Clipper determination and a far from poor squad, the Columbiana lads may turn the trick that has been impossible for all comers for more than two years.

Cabas will probably have Carl Sheets back in the line on defense this week, but is questionable whether he will be used at his regular fullback job on offense. Bill Newell, ailing 1944 star halfback, will definitely not be out again this week.

Cabas has shifted both Don Kurtz and Bobby Hum into the fullback job since Sheets has been way-laid, but neither change has resulted in the desired success.

Needs Fullback
All-important to the shift T-formation employed by the Clippers is a speedy, power-driving fullback and should Sheets make the grade by Saturday he will undoubtedly get the nod for the job. Hum goes to halfback regularly and Kurtz to quarter.

Hum does the punting and the passing and has been shouldering the bulk of the running assignments. His gallops around ends have been impressive and ground-gaining—last week resulting in two scores against Canfield.

Leetonia is in good shape, Coach Charlie Mather reports, and he is firm in warning his charges against over-confidence in the contest this week.

"The Salem victory," Mather says, "may make the fellows a little too sure of themselves, but I have been telling them that there can be no let-downs from here on in."

The Leetonia backfield, which is tough but no tougher than the power-driving line that has pushed everyone around—is in good shape for the game.

Play-calling Guy Beltempo, who does the maneuver selection chore in the midst of those Bear huddles, Larry Duco, Fred Dominic and Sammy Stumpo, clever T-ball handler and blocker, are set to win No. 13.

Leetonia In Good Shape
On the line no injuries are reported and there are no qualifications made for the battle. Columbiana will have several sets of hands full to cover Pat Mancuso on those passes because he just doesn't miss if the ball is within reaching distance.

Final announcement of the starting time of the game will probably be forthcoming Friday, when it will be definitely known whether the lights will be set for the game Saturday night.

Regardless of the outlook—night or day—the rivalry is rising and the pitch getting stronger and stronger. Leetonia rates tops, but the Clippers plan to make it tough.

TWO HANKS WIND UP SERIES PLAY IN GAME TODAY

Hank Borowy, Greenberg To Show Wares Again In Series Finale

By SID FEDER

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—It is exactly 74 years since the fire Mrs. O'Leary's cow started in Chicago burned itself out, and today another local "hotfoot" finally cools off in the seventh payoff game of this richest of all World Series.

Now, although there have been some unkind remarks concerning the antics of the Detroit Tiger outfield, there is no cow involved in the current sizzler, in which the Tigers and Chicago Cubs collide at 1:30 p. m. (EST) in Mr. Wrigley's baseball pasture for the whole pot.

Thanks to the "Hanks," both of these ball clubs are still around to tangle for the $70,000 jack pot—the difference between the winner's share and the losers' $140,800.10 from the fanciest players' pool of all time, a gaudy $92,857.50 including the radio "cut." Of the total, the two clubs will get 70 per cent, the remaining 30 per cent going to major league clubs which finished in the first division.

These Hanks are Outfielder Greenberg, the Detroit crusher, and Pitcher Borowy, the Chicago ironman. And while there have been some hilarious goings-on through the first six scrambles of this silliest of all post-season sets, no one can blame either of the Hanks for any of them.

If Greenberg hadn't been on hand with his big bat, the Tigers might have bowed out of this one in four straight. If Borowy hadn't been on deck to serve them up for the Cubs three times in the first half-dozen scuffles, the Chicago champs might be back on the farm right now.

The area of Florida is 58,560 square miles and 4,298 of those square miles are water surface.

SCOTT OF NAVY'S POWERHOUSE RATES BEST LINEMAN NOD

Warren Amling of Bucks Rates High In AP Poll Today

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Dick Scott, Navy center, won honors today as "the lineman of the week" in the first Associated Press linemen poll of the college football season.

Commander Oscar Hagberg, Navy coach, praised Scott to the skies for his play in the Midshipmen's 21-0 triumph over previously unbeaten Duke.

"Besides playing his position excellently," said the commander, "Scott intercepted a couple of passes and directed the defense activities of our team. He played a great game throughout."

Allison Danzig of the New York Times; Jesse Abramson of the New York Herald Tribune; Frank Gory of the Glens Falls, N. Y., Post-Star, and Clarence Scroggs of the Asheville, N. C., Citizen-Times, also picked Scott as the week's standout lineman.

Pressing him closely were Warren Amling, Ohio State guard; Ernest "Bear" Knotts, Duke guard; Mac Wenshunas, Illinois center; Earl "Red" Wheeler, Arkansas center; Dick Hollingshead, Yale tackle; Roger Desroches, Holy Cross tackle; Hank Walker, Virginia end; Bob Fitch, Minnesota tackle; Dick Duden, Navy end; and Jim Kekeris, Missouri tackle.

Praise Amling

Kekeris, a towering 280-pounder, accounted for Missouri's upset 10-7 victory over Southern Methodist with a 17-yard field goal. Previously his blocking had paved the way for Missouri's touchdown, after which he also kicked the extra point.

Wenshunas, a discharged Marine, drew plaudits from Pat Harmon of the Champaign, Ill., News-Gazette. "His play at center for Illinois," explained Harmon, "was the difference between a 6-0 loss and a 26-0 win for Indiana."

Bert McGrane of the Des Moines Register; Bob Hoey of the Ohio State Journal at Columbus, and Paul Hornung of the Columbus Dispatch agreed that Amling virtually played two positions for the Buckeyes against Iowa. "He was invincible in his own spot and aided the inexperienced tackle beside him," McGrane said.

Knott's great defensive play for Duke helped keep Navy from running the score. W. H. Smith and Jack Horner, both of Durham, N. C., Herald, agreed.

Martin Meyer, Wisconsin tackle; Buster McClure, Nevada tackle; Captain Jim Callanan, Southern California end; and George Robotham, U.C.L.A. end, likewise received high praise from their coaches.

Army-Michigan Encounter To Headline Nation's Big Time Games This Saturday

By NED BROWN

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—East hogs the football spotlight this weekend with supercharged Army tackling Michigan in the Yankee stadium Saturday. Crowding the penumbra (aw, sit yer dictionary), we have Navy-Penn. State, Penn-North Carolina, Columbia-Yale, Colgate-Lafayette, Cornell-Princeton and Harvard-Rochester and a lot of lesser lights.

But let's get to figures.

No one in his right senses would pick Michigan to beat Army this year, but there will be a capacity crowd on hand to see the teams in action. Army should start rolling right off the bat, and again Coach Earl Blake will have an opportunity to brush up his plays against a worthy but outclassed opponent.

The overflow should fill Baker Field and see a whale of a game between Yale and Columbia and here we have to root for the home team. Yale showed weakness against passes and in Lou Kusserow and Gene Rossides Coach Lou Little has a pair who know how to throw that pigskin something fierce. Looks like the Blue and White by a couple of touchdowns.

Pennsylvania's powerhouse, which got a slight scare from Dartmouth last Saturday, should not have too much trouble with North Carolina, Colgate should come back to trim Lafayette, Cornell has a breather against Princeton but Harvard may have its hands full trying to nose out Rochester.

Workout For Middies

At Annapolis Navy will give its backs a workout against Penn State. It was not easy to get an accurate line on the Nittany Lions in their 47-7 massacre of Muhlenberg, for they used a single wing attack rather than the "T" which Navy scouts had anticipated. Besides, the Penn Staters used reserves throughout the last three quarters. The Higgins coached squad looked very good on defense, but Muhlenberg's attack compared to Navy's like a toy pistol to a three-inch gun.

Among the smaller fry Connecticut is preferred over F.M. Drexel over City College, Michigan State over Pitt, R.P.I. over Coast Guard, Tufts over Worcester, Muhlenberg over Rutgers and Ursinus over P.M.C.

In the south Duke should bounce back and wallop Wake Forest, Alabama gets the nod over South Carolina, Florida looks better than Vanderbilt. Georgia gets the vote over Kentucky, L. S.U. ought to take Texas A&M. V.M.I. seems to shade North Carolina State, Mississippi and Mississippi State should beat Louisiana Tech and Detroit respectively, Tennessee is too good for Chattanooga, and William and Mary should bowl over V.P.I.

Good Games In West

The Notre Dame-Dartmouth and Ohio State-Wisconsin games dominate the football picture in the West, and the first named should win in each instance. Meanwhile Purdue will plaster Iowa while Indiana is doing the same to Nebraska and Marquette will redeem itself against Kansas State. Missouri ought to beat Iowa State, while Michigan State is taking care of Pittsburgh. Oberlin gets a shaky vote over Baldwin Wallace and Case over Bowling Green.

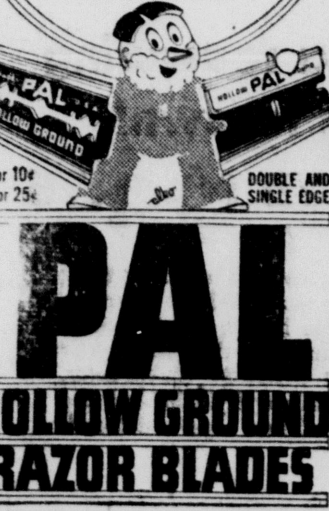

In the southwest Arkansas is favored over Baylor in a tough game, Tulane should fill up on Rice while Texas is taking Oklahoma and Tulsa wallops Texas Tech.

Oregon appears an easy winner over Oregon State in the far west, Colorado looks better than Colorado A&M, Southern California should wallop San Diego Navy, Washington take over Washington State and St. Mary's should pile up another big score over poor little

Salem Boosters To Meet Thursday

Members of the Salem Boosters club will meet for a luncheon affair at the Saxon club at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the Saxon hall, Joe Kelley, president, announced today.

The special meeting will include initial plans for the annual Salem High school grid banquet, Kelley said, and pictures of the Ravenna and Leetonia games will be shown.

All Boosters are urged to attend.

College of the Pacific, which has taken plenty of lacing this year.

Other Headliners

On Friday night Syracuse will try to come back against West Virginia in Syracuse, but may find the job too much for them while Temple looks like a good bet over Bucknell. The same night Washburn and Kansas will stage a close one that could end in a tie. Kings Point should beat Maryland, Oklahoma A&M ought to beat S.M.U., Denver take Utah and Boston College win from New York University.

Sunday's big college game will bring Holy Cross against Villanova, and Holy Cross ought to smear the Wildcats.

As Harry Grayson says, go to bed early the night before and enjoy the game. Maybe he should add—the next day.

ARMY STILL RATES NO. 1 GRID SPOT

Scribes Again Place West Pointers At Top of Nation's Teams

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Impressive triumphs this season have convinced most of the 111 sports experts who took part in the Associated Press first weekly poll of 1945 that the Cadets still rate as the No. 1 team of collegiate football.

The West Pointers were acclaimed as national champions last year after they had won all of their nine games and rolled up 504 points to their opponents' 35.

Eighty-six of the 111 writers cast their first place ballots for Earl Blaik's powerhouse.

Navy was ranked second on 14 first place votes and 955 points. The rest of the Big Ten (with first place votes and points in parentheses) were: Notre Dame (3-699), Ohio State (3-658), Minnesota (2-605), Southern California (1-435), Alabama (0-305), Indiana (0-216), Michigan (1-185), and Texas (0-167).

Cornell, unbeaten in three games, received one first place vote and finished in a tie for 23rd with 16 points.

GEN. MARSHALL

plishing a common objective." Marshall listed these steps in Germany's military downfall:

- (1) Failure to invade England after Dunkirk.
- (2) Failure of the 1941 campaign against Moscow which led Hitler to remove his commander-in-chief, General Von Brauchschisch — "the tuning point in the war."
- (3) Failure of the Stalingrad siege, another Hitler idea.
- (4) Failure of the Ardennes counter-attack last winter—also a Hitler mistake and his last on the grand scale.

The general said that the Japanese strategic plan included invasion of the Hawaiian Islands and the Aleutians, subjecting the north-west United States to aerial bombardment, raiding west coast aviation industries and then seizing critical areas.

Failed At Start

The plan failed at the start, he said, when the enemy did not land troops on Hawaii to deny the United States the launching point for the American advance across the Pacific.

Marshall disclosed that the United States had ready a detailed plan for the invasion of the Japanese homeland, calling for two general operations.

The first was scheduled for this fall, aimed at the southern island of Kyushu. The second, timed for about four months later, was to have put two American armies ashore in the immediate area of Tokyo, on the main island of Honshu.

These were "our plans for final victory in World War II should Japan fight to a last ditch national suicide," the general said.

But "we had other plans which we anticipated might bring a much speedier end to the war—atomic bombardment by air."

He noted that Japan's surrender after came four days after the first atomic bomb hit Hiroshima.

and providing for "peaceful settlement of disputes of every nature which might eventually arrive between them."

Germany agreed to liquidate her general staff, place a civilian at the head of her military establishment, and to prevent military training of German youth.

That was twenty years ago.

Today Gen. Marshall, after one of the most calamitous wars in history, reminds America that a rich nation which lays down its arms, in this age of terrifying and fantastic new weapons, courts catastrophe.

Two hundred thousand Americans have died in combat in the past four years, many of them as Marshall report infers, because America didn't have proper organization and weapons. He says Germany had some, better weapons and more of them—better tanks, better guns, better powder.

"The fact that we overtook Germany's head start on the atomic explosive is comforting," he says in a neat bit of understatement, "but certainly should not lull us again into a state of complacent inertia."

The Marshall report, in the light of history, supplies its own emphasis. For instance:

"These facts should be considered along with the police regarding the manufacture of explosives after the last war and the scientific development that should or would have followed in the plants of the great commercial manufacturers had they not been subjected to bitter attack as 'merchants of death'."
